

ANNUAL DAVID H. PORTER CLASSICAL WORLD LECTURE

“Do the Ancient Greeks and Romans Have ‘Race’?”
Prof. Rebecca Futo Kennedy (Denison University)

Monday, March 29, 2021
6:30 – 7:30 PM via ZOOM

!! Advance registration required — see below !!

* * * * *

THE OPPORTUNITY: Attend the lecture and write an informed review for extra credit.

THE FINE PRINT:

1. Attend Prof. RFK’s lecture (time and venue given above).
2. Take notes during the lecture to aid in writing your review.
3. Write a thoughtful 400-to-600-word review (standard font, double-spaced, 1.25” margins) of the lecture. You might consider the questions like these:
 - What do we mean by “race” in classical antiquity?
 - How did the Athenians mark physiological difference?
 - How did the Romans mark the same?
 - Do ancient notions of race have implications for modern theories?
 - What did you learn about the ancient world that you didn’t know before?
4. Attach your review to an email to me by Monday, April 5, noon (EST), PDF format only.
5. Prof. Curley will award your review up to 50 points, and add that score to your homework point total.

Register at the following link:

<https://skidmore.zoom.us/meeting/register/tJYvfuGorjgvH9YOLLiUlutM2n-h5eMYQ7RL>

!! C O N V E N I A M U S !!